Knowing and Finding Blessings

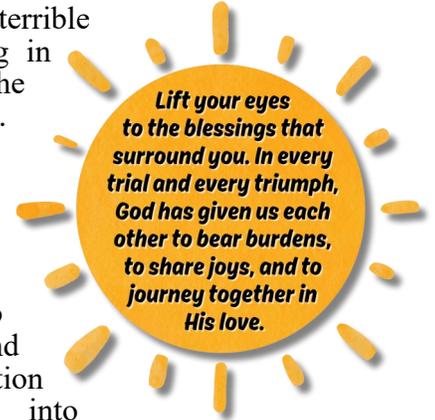

Our world can be a confusing place. We are constantly inundated with mixed messages. One message that seems to be consistent wherever you look in our country is that possessions=happiness. Our commercially driven culture is constantly in pursuit of bigger, better, newer, faster. We also pursue security for the future all with the notion that if I can just reach this one last financial goal or grab that one new shiny toy, I will finally feel fulfilled; I will feel like I have arrived.

One of the main issues with these kind of pursuits is that we may shove others out of the way to get what we want. I mean, think about it: how many times have you heard the news story on Black Friday of someone getting seriously hurt or injured as they attempt to grab hold of that special thing on sale (usually a giant TV) that is going to change their life? If you are like me, you have heard this story too many times. The more we pursue this type of fulfillment, the more we become curved in on ourselves. We navel-gaze. We ask questions like, "What is the next thing I want? What would make me happy? How can I get this? How can I get that? Boy, that would sure make my life easier, wouldn't it? Our culture promotes this. And the more self-absorbed we become, the less important other people become to us.

So then, we come to the terrible irony that some are facing in our region this spring. The loss of those possessions. For the self-absorbed and self-serving, this type of loss can mean the loss in spring storms and power outages is of anything and everything that matters to them. When facing this kind of loss, our natural inclination is to be driven further into ourselves and our broken condition.

We lose sight of anything and everything that isn't about "me". It is in that moment, that we must seek to stop the ever-plummeting spiral downward, into ourselves, into despair. And the first step to put the brakes on our descent is to change our gaze. We must look up. We must look out. And as we do, we will see, as so many have here in the northern part of the lower peninsula, that there are helpful hands fully extended, waiting to grab hold and lift us up. And this is the irony: That in the middle of ice storms, tornadoes and natural disasters; in the midst of the loss of so much, so much can be gained.

A lesson to be learned is that happiness is not to be found in the accumulation of stuff that is here today and can be tossed away tomorrow. Happiness and fulfillment are to be found in relationship. Other people in our lives are the true blessing. As we have all too often shoved others out of the way to get to what we want; those who we have shoved out of the way may be exactly what we need. So what about you? Where has your gaze been fixed lately? Have the experiences that you have been thru afforded you a new opportunity to change your gaze and see where the real, lasting blessings in your life can actually be found? God created each of us to be in a relationship. Relationship with Him and with each other. And God works in mysterious ways. Now is a perfect time to look up and look out. Look and see the blessings all around you. God has given us each other to help us get through together when times are tough and to celebrate together when times are joyful. But the key is together. So, friends, let's continue this journey together, knowing that the Lord has given us each other for just such a time as this.

Called to Serve Others

Throughout all four Gospels, we read how the life of Jesus was one of total service and sacrifice. Jesus declared, “even as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life as a ransom for many” (Matthew 20:28). Jesus continually served the hungry, handicapped, sick, and homeless. His loving and servant heart was seen in all that He said and did. Following His example during the three years He spent on earth, we realize that our purpose, too, is to serve. He lived for His heavenly Father and for others. Just as Jesus served His Father, we exist to serve Him. Being conformed into the image of Christ we will take on the role of servants as He did.

The concept of serving rather than being served is not a natural one. We, by nature, prefer to be “number one.” We’re too wrapped up in ourselves even to notice the needs of others. Jerry White, in his book Honesty, Morality, and Conscience, writes, Christians are to be servants of both God and people, but most of us approach business, work, and life in general with the attitude of what I can get rather than what I can give. Serving God receives a favorable response but serving people, especially those who cannot repay us, has no visible benefit or glory from anyone except God.

A life of service is contrary to what our society promotes. We are told that we should aspire to fame, power, and wealth. Servants receive no glory, spotlight, or fame, but a meaningful relationship with Christ is not possible if we put ourselves first and seek only the goals that are important to the world that we live in. Living a life of service, we give of ourselves without striving for financial rewards or glory. Unlike the praise we receive from God, worldly praise has no lasting value. Along with the Apostle Paul we say that we are “not to please man, but to please God Who tests our hearts” (1 Thessalonians 2:4).

Handle with Care

We have all received fragile items in boxes that are marked “Handle with Care.” In some ways, the gifts we receive as stewards from God should be marked with the words “Handle with Care.” Shouldn’t we handle our blessings such as abilities, money, time, physical health, and relationships with utmost care? In essence, we are handling with care the blessings He entrusts to us when we are faithful and responsible with them. Realizing all of life is a gift helps us to receive with gratitude and to handle our blessings with care and thankfulness.

Trinity Lutheran School The Classroom Chronicles

May-2025

As we enter the beautiful month of May—a season of renewal, reflection, and growth—I want to take a moment to express my heartfelt gratitude to each of you for your continued prayers, support, and partnership in the mission of our school - your school.

It has been a year filled with both blessings and challenges, and through it all, we have witnessed God’s faithfulness in powerful ways. Our students are not only growing in knowledge but also in their understanding of God’s love and purpose for their lives. What a gift it is to help nurture young minds and hearts in Christ! It has been a joy to witness the faith formation of our 8th grade confirmands as they each share their Faith Statements with us during worship.

This month, we celebrate the faith journey milestone of Confirmation, in addition we celebrate Mother’s Day, teacher & staff appreciation, and the approaching end of the academic year. These are reminders of the many hands and hearts that shape our children’s lives—parents, teachers, volunteers, and of course, you, our church family. Your prayers, encouragement, and generosity allow us to continue this sacred work of Christian education.

As we look ahead to summer and begin preparations for the next school year, I humbly ask for your continued prayers for our staff, students, and their families. We pray that God will continue to bless our school with wisdom, safety, and a spirit of joy in learning and serving.

On behalf of our faculty and students, thank you for walking with us in faith. May this season bring you peace, joy, and a renewed sense of God’s presence in your life.

With gratitude and blessings,
Mrs. Karen Friebe
Principal

The ladies of the LWML/Friendship Guild would like to thank the congregation for their support of our fleece blanket project. With the help of Thrivent Gift Cards and donations from several members we were able to purchase enough fabric to complete 42 blankets. These blankets will be blessed today and then will be distributed to Orphan Grain Train and the cancer treatment center and dialysis center in Bay City. Thank you for your willingness to help with this project. Please come up after the service if you would like a closer look at the blankets.

A note to the congregation from the National Lutheran Women's Missionary League and the LWML/Friendship Guild here at Trinity. PRAISE GOD! Through his grace and your faithful support we have reached our Mission Goal of $2,350,000.00 for the 2023-2025 biennium. The coins that jingle and the bills that fold that are dropped into the Mite Box have been joined with the donated Mites from all the other LCMS churches to meet this goal. Please talk to any LWML member or attend our next meeting if you would like to know more about the various Mission Grants. The Mission Grants are local as well as world wide. To God be the glory!
